

JOSH CLARKE

BIO

Josh Clarke is a fast-rising Canadian R&B / Pop singer/songwriter out of Toronto, Ontario. With his breakthrough into the music industry, Josh has joined a super team of artists, producers, and managers and he is currently working on the release of his debut project. Working daily with music's brightest superstars and producers, Josh is poised to be the next big star in Canadian R&B / Pop music.

At the age of 15, Josh's grandfather gave him his first piano—he began to practice and write songs as an outlet to deal with his parent's separation, not knowing that the emotions that arose from that time would define his musical persona.

Surrounded by writers, dancers, singers, and entertainers within his family, Josh gravitated to the arts naturally, making music his vice of choice. As he threw himself into the creation of his sound, it was clear to him that music would not only become a channel for dealing with life's trials but he was drawn to the art of fine-tuning and producing a body of work that is purely his; and will undoubtedly resonate with many.

Inspired by artists such as Prince, Ne-Yo, Trey Songz, Usher, Miguel, and Maxwell, Josh hopes to become a top-tier song writer and performer that tells his own story of capturing the hearts and minds of today. Don't let his age fool you... he brings with him experience and an innate understanding of people, circumstances, and life.
